Back to the theme about inner peace causing world peace.

Take a look at this...

New Iraqi law legalizes rape

This is a product of Feminism. The prevalence of rape is caused by the attitude of feminism. In all areas that feminism gains ground, rape increases. Instead of the promised increase of respect for females, they are degraded, and torn apart. Second wave feminism is largely built upon lies, turning many to confusion, and a complete lack of inner peace. Inner peace brings world peace. The lack of it brings war.

True feminism EMPOWERS women. A truly empowered woman can be a Doctor, a Lawyer, a Congresswoman, and can own a firearm and protect herself from rapists. She does not need to belong to any "feminist" group to accomplish this.

The Iraqi government is a product of the United States - NEW WORLD ORDER CONTROLLED - Government. The New World Order brought us Feminism. Feminism is a product of MEN. Rape is prevalent in the US now. Rape by men, against women, is committed OFTEN in the US Military, and the perpetrators are, for the most part, not punished.

Women have learned, through the culture of some countries (mainly under New World Order control) that sex is to be freely given to nearly everyone who wants it. From that attitude, men have learned they have a right to women. This has led to a male attitude, "if they do not give it, I'll take it," which is irrational.

Fortunately, in many parts of the world these cultural "norms" are not practiced, and many people live truly normal lives. The divorce rate is very low. A much larger proportion of the population marries than in the US and similarly controlled countries.

The Unseen Reality

Recently, I wrote of people who live a lie, based upon observable fact vs fiction. As one example, GLOBAL WARMING - CLIMATE CHANGE is a HOAX. People who ride bicycles to work every day to save the world from global warming are LIVING A LIE. This is observable, and scientific, fact.

But, what of the reality of the unseen?

A child is raised by a doctor, who's father was a doctor, and swears that his child will be a doctor. The child says he wants to be an artist, or a music composer. That's an unseen desire. It could be blind rebellion, and perhaps the child could become a good doctor. It could also be something else, something not "normal." It could be something paranormal, and far more akin to reality than the father's egoistical wishes.

Dreams can be far more real than our waking life. That is because the waking life is often plagued with filters. The filters distort. It's true that dreams can contain a lot of static, and unreality, based upon subconscious, and unhealthy urges. But, some dreams bring through a very vivid, and unfiltered, reality. One can find themselves saying, and doing, wholesome things in dreams they would not while awake.

During the period of time that entities traverse the plains of consciousness, that is between the lives lived as males or females, some are in communication with those who they will meet during the upcoming lifetime. During this time, there is no desire of male and female for one another, because there is no distinction of sex during that time. Because the soul is made bare, and not hindered by filters, the purposes of that soul can be known. Knowledge of the passions does exist, but not the actual experience of passion. With that knowledge, people do pick those with whom they will have passion during their incarnation, based not upon desire, but rather soul purpose.

The type of consciousness during dreams is similar to what exists between lifetimes.

A great passion reigned in the founders of this great nation, The United States, during their incarnation. They conspired between lives to be together on this continent, and form this nation.

We have to be careful about the unseen: that which cannot be proven by observable fact. It is, often enough, used as an excuse for irrational behavior. It can be an excuse for unfounded, obsessions.

Other factors can coincide with what we experience from the unseen influences. There is synchronicity. There is astrology. These factors coincide so we may obtain a clearer picture.

Take a look at this website, regarding synchronicity:

True intuition must be cultivated through experience. If you use it, it will grow stronger. If you do not trust it, it will become weak. If trusted over a period of time, it will come through louder than other impulses, and drown out that which causes confusion.

We are in a dangerous situation of Russian Troops on The Ukraine Border, with all the threats from the US. We have no known history of a worldwide thermonuclear war. It would bring a devastating outcome to everyone on earth. Several very knowledgeable, and experienced, experts are warning of World Wide Nuclear War.
