

As Ghandi told us, "We Are The Change We Seek."

We cannot expect to bring in world peace, until we are at peace with ourselves. Inner peace, brings outer peace with those we come in contact with.

There are a number of types of revolutions that have occurred throughout history. The birth of our formerly free nation, The United States, came about primarily through violence after all political methods had been exhausted. One method is not better, or good, compared to another that is worse, or bad. Some revolutions are accomplished through a variety of methods.

Anyone in their right mind prefers the peaceful, convenient, and non-bloody type. So, we explore that avenue first.

Anyone in their right mind also prefers death to slavery. Those who would not risk their lives to preserve liberty are stupid, and weak.
