

To all of you on the WORLD PEACE ALLIANCE mailing:

First, an announcement about the new look on the WORLD PEACE ALLIANCE site. Incidentally, if you like that template, I can use it to design a web site for you. There is also a large selection of other templates available for you.

Republic Magazine is going to include the site as part of their new directory to be published soon. Please check out the new site:

This organization, WORLD PEACE ALLIANCE, is about many things, but the core is that miracles do not necessarily occur now and then, by a seeming accident. They are also brought about through tested, and verified, scientific methodology. They work when the proper method is understood and implemented. We have 2 recent miracles to report. The first one is that information about USA concentration camps was covered in mainstream media. The second is one example of many that 9-11 information has also become mainstream. The significance of that can best be articulated by giving an example of how cockroaches crawl into holes when one turns on the light. They love the cover of darkness, but hate the light. They cannot do much harm when the light shines on them.

So, the miracle of a new world, one in which the people live in peace, freedom and prosperity, is coming about one part at a time. It is that way because a sufficient number of people are at peace within themselves, and they are confident that it is manifesting. Many of them are outwardly active in bringing this about, but the most important thing about such people is they are not obsessed with the problems, rather they are filled with a vision of this becoming a wonderful world for us all.

Miracles can be brought to your personal life, such as finding your ideal mate: a soulmate, bringing more money to buy both necessary and fun things, good health, etc. It is good to desire and bring about a more fulfilling personal life, and the only harm of that is if a person forgets the peace and prosperity of the rest of the world, outside his/her family and friends, or they have no care of the need for balance between spirituality, their emotional and sex-life, material things, and intellectual growth.

FEAR vs LOVE:

In some man-woman relationships, love is chocked off by fear of losing the other, fear of losing an argument, fear of losing control, and other fears of insignificant, or unreal, phantoms.

There are, still remaining, a number of people who understand the program of the so-called "elite" to imprison and murder many people on the earth, yet they are afraid to speak out and expose them. They should consider that one can have so much fear, and so much love, and that the total percentage is 100 percent. So, if you have 25 percent love, it is often because 75 percent of your thoughts and emotions are that of fear. What do some of these people fear? Some believe they may be placed on a watch list and taken away to camps if martial law is implemented. Others are afraid of ridicule, to not be considered "smart." Others are afraid of losing friends. However, to love oneself fully, and have total fulfillment in life, one must love the people of this world, and that often enough means to not be approved of. If they have complete love, and no fear, why should they care what others think?

The apostle Paul wrote, "Perfect love casts out all fear."

So, what do those people have to lose? Their lives? If the "elite" were to have their way, more than 80 percent of the people on the earth would be murdered. How does it, then, make sense to worry about one's life and thus remain silent? What could they save, a little bit more time to remain alive?

"A time comes when silence is betrayal," said Martin Luther King. That includes betrayal to one's god, one's self, their children, and all their descendants.

People, love humanity, as well as your individual selves. Don't sacrifice either of those for the other. Keep it in balance.

TRUTH vs LIES:

When a person embraces, and believes, lies, their lives become a lie. To give one example, if one believes there are too many people on the earth, and chooses not to bring children into the world because of that, the manifestation of no children is brought about by a lie, so their life becomes a lie. When people believe their very existence, or that of their children, is a problem to the life of the earth, their self-esteem is reduced. Then they act out their feelings of inadequacy - - another manifestation of the lie.

Please examine the scientific evidence that man made global warming, and too many people on the earth, are lies:

Belief in prophecy as some kind of set pattern that no-one can change, causes some people to think no-one can take part in the change of world events.
